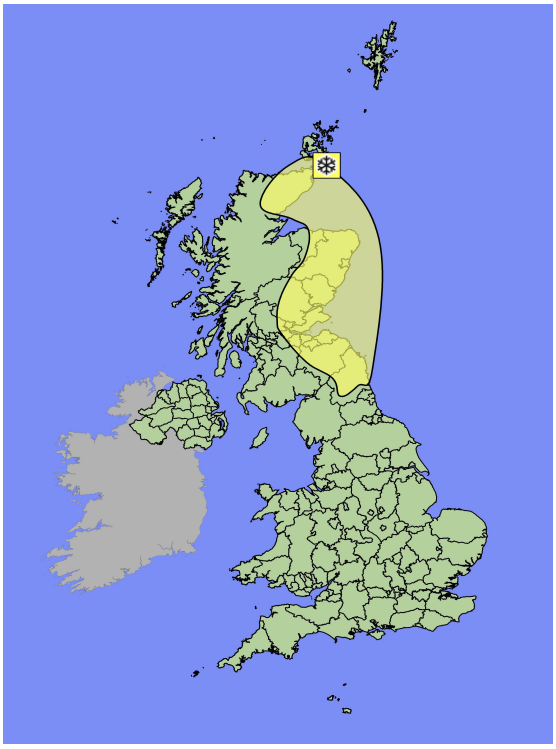
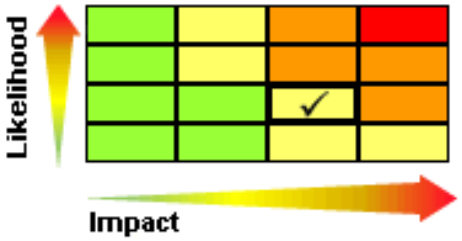
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Monday's frontal zone is expected to linger over much of eastern Scotland and parts of northeastern England on Tuesday leading to further spells of snow for many areas and a mixture of rain, sleet and snow over lower lying coastal areas. In terms of accumulations, a further 2-5cm snow is expected over many inland areas whilst above 200m in excess of 10cm is possible. Any accumulations in lower lying coastal areas will be small and patchier in nature.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Alert of Snow

Valid from 00:05 on Tue, 22nd Jan 2013 until 23:59 on Tue, 22nd Jan 2013

Further snow is expected over parts of northeastern England and eastern Scotland during Tuesday. Over lower lying coastal areas accumulations are expected to be small whilst inland accumulations of 2-5cm are widely expected and above 200m in excess of 10cm is possible. The public should be aware of the risk of disruption to travel.
